Vessels That Are Used in Solemn Ceremonies of the Catholic Church.

Ancient History of the Chalice, Paten and the Ciborium.

The Monstrance Holds the Consecrated Host On Certain Occasions.

ALTAR AND WHAT IT REPRESENTS

To the devout Catholic the altar represents a tomb, because the tombs of the martyrs were the first altars of Christendom. For this reason also the relics of saints and martyrs are inclosed in the altars of Catholic churches. As far back as the time of St. Augustine it had been customary to adorn the altars with flowers and as time rolled on the decoration of altars became more elaborate.

Three cloths are laid on the altar. The uppermost one is enriched with lace and embroidery and must descend to the ground. The church prescribes the use of these three linen cloths, easily washed, to guard against the serious inconvenience that might result from a fall of the chalice. The altar must be consecrated by a Bishop before it can be used for the holy sacrifice of the mass. There are three cards called canons placed on the altar. They help to direct the priest by setting before his eyes the prayers that he could not read with so much ease in the missal. The largest of the canons is placed in the center of the altar before the tabernacle, the second to the left and the third to the right.

The tabernacle, where the Holy Eucharist is kept, is a receptacle in the center of the altar. It is furnished inside with white silk and covered outside with a veil. The tabernacle is surrounded by a large cross in order to remind us that the sacrifice of the altar is a continuation of the sacrifice of Calvary. During the holy sacrifice at least one candle burns on each side of the altar, to remind us that Christ was the light of the world and also to remind us of the days when the early Christians had to practice their devotions in the dim light of the catacombs.

The principal sacred vessels are the chalice, paten, ciborium and monstrance. The chalice is as old as Christianity. It represents the cup in which our Divine Saviour consecrated his blood and gave it to his apostles to drink. The chalice was a vessel used by the Jews at their meals and was passed from one to another as a mark of friendship. In the early days, owing to the churches' poverty, chalices were made of glass and sometimes of copper. As the people progressed in piety they gave freely of their gold and silver from which to fashion the sacred vessels. In the year 203 A. D. Pope Zephyrinus forbade the use of any other material save gold and silver. Out of respect for the body and blood of Christ these vessels are always consecrated before being put to their proper uses. In olden times all the people communicated under the species of wine as well as bread, and history tells us that a chalice given by Charlemagne to the Church of A-la-Chapelle weighed eighteen pounds. In those days the chalices were equipped with two handles. The Christians in early days offered the wine and water that were to be consecrated in private chalices. In these days cruets are used instead of the private chalices.

The ciborium is a covered chalice and must be of silver, with the inside lined with gold. It recalls to our minds the ark of the covenant, which contained the manna, a figure of the Eucharist. In it are kept the hosts which the priest tenders to communicants during the mass. The monstrance, sometimes called the ostensorium, is kept in the tabernacle. It is shaped to represent glory, or the sun, and reminds us of the True Sun, whose glory enlightened the world. It is not as old as the other sacred vessels, since its origin is traced to the time when impiety and error attacked the fundamental dogma of the real presence. In order to combat these evils the church established the solemn festivals of the blessed sacrament and thus furnished to the pious people an opportunity for adoring their Redeemer. The monstrance should be of gold, or at least of silver, with inner lining of gilt. During benediction and feasts of the blessed sacrament the host is inclosed in the monstrance.

SAD DEATH.

Fireman James Cusick Contracted Cold While Fighting Fire.

James Cusick, one of the most popular members of the fire department, died at his home, 1911 Bank street, on Saturday night after an illness of four months. His death was due to heart disease, superinduced by catching cold while working at the Court House fire four months ago. On that occasion he came in contact with a stream from a hose and his clothing became saturated. Nevertheless he continued at his post for several hours in the bitter winds. The next day he fell ill and while his ailment was not considered serious at first, rheumatism developed and gradually extended to his heart.

Mr. Cusick was born in Louisville thirty-four years ago. He joined the fire department in 1899 and spent the greater part of the last seven years as driver for the No. 1 engine company. He was deservedly popular among his fellows and his death is generally regretted. His mother, Mrs. Catherine Cusick, with whom he made his home, and the following brothers and sisters survive him: Martin and Peter Cusick and Mrs. Thomas Pretty, of Cincinnati, and Miss Katie Cusick.

The deceased was a member of Division 1, A. O. H. The funeral took place from St. Patrick's church on Tuesday morning and was largely attended. The pallbearers were chosen from his associates in the fire department and A. O. H.

LARGE FIELD.

The Rev. Father J. F. Hillebrand Transferred to Evansville.

The Rev. Father J. F. Hillebrand, pastor of St. Mary's-of-the-Knobs church, near New Albany, has been transferred to the rectory of St. Boniface church at Evansville. Father Hillebrand was transferred from Rockport to St. Mary's-of-the-Knobs eight years ago and in that time did a great work among the people he was set to guide. He has endeared himself to every member of the congregation, and while they hate to see him leave they are rejoicing that he has merited promotion. Not only was he a friend of the Catholics, but all the people of Floyd county, irrespective of religion, admired and honored him.

Father Hillebrand's success in building up the membership of the congregation was marvelous. He has also raised quite a large sum to be applied to the erection of a larger church. Had Father Hillebrand remained he would have begun the work in a short time. His new charge is the second largest parish in the diocese and numbers more than 400 families. This worthy priest has many friends in Louisville who wish him success in his new field.

NEW MEMBERS.

Mackin's Men Never Tire Of Bringing in Recruits.

Three new applications, two reported upon favorably and three candidates elected were the record of Mackin Council, Y. M. I., Tuesday night. Chairman Louis J. Kieffer, in behalf of the Outing Committee, reported that matters were progressing favorably, and the council decided to award watch charms, emblematic of the order, to all members who disposed of 200 or more tickets. This will be an additional incentive to dispose of tickets, since many of the members are already possessed of buttons for the sale of fifty tickets.

The San Francisco Relief Committee reported that donations were still coming in, and an additional sum will probably be forwarded this week. The special committee, of which Louis J. Kieffer is Chairman, recommended the purchase of several works on Christian doctrine and church history. The council approved the suggestions and the works will be added to Mackin's library at an early date. Letters of congratulation were directed to be sent to the following, who have recently become fathers of prospective members of the Y. M. I.: Louis Bontraeger, Frank Schmidt and Maurice Quill.

It was decided to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the council in an appropriate style next September, and the following committee will make the necessary arrangements: Charles S. Reidy, Chairman; George J. Lutz, Dan Cunningham, James T. Shelley, Vincent Smith, Frank Murphy and William Kerberg.

LADIES' AUXILIARY

Gratified Over Outcome of the Dramatic Club's Venture.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., held a splendid meeting Wednesday night. In the absence of Miss Mary Sheridan, who is in attendance at the Catholic Knights and Ladies' convention in Detroit, Miss Elizabeth King presided. Two new members were proposed and one was initiated. The members were in great glee over the success of the dramatic club's first performance, and they expressed their thanks to all who had in any way assisted them. Miss Nellie Downing was awarded the prize for selling the largest number of tickets.

State President Mary Corcoran announced that she was organizing a branch of the auxiliary at Covington, and expects to establish it with fifty charter members. Miss Corcoran is being assisted in this work by Miss Ada Conkling, the State Vice President, and Miss Hannah Murphy, County President.

It was determined to hold an open meeting and social session at the last meeting in June. The auxiliary will give a reception in honor of the members of the dramatic club at the home of Thomas Heuley, 537 Twenty-sixth street, on Monday evening.

CLEVER.

Performance of Geraldine Dramatic Club Won Generous Applause.

Amateur Actors Gave Creditable Production of Irish Drama.

Splendid Audience Saw Good Work of the Young Theatians.

INVITED TO REPRODUCE SHOW

A splendid audience attended the performance of the Geraldine Dramatic Club at Macaulay's Theater Monday night, and by the generous applause and multiplicity of floral offerings testified that the efforts of the young theatians were appreciated. Every lady and gentleman in the cast had friends in the audience, so that all came in for a share of the applause and none, no matter how insignificant his or her part, was slighted.

The curtain raiser, "Forget-Me-Nots," was given by Thomas D. Clines and Michael F. McGuire, both well known amateur actors. In this sketch Mr. Clines appeared as a dissipated youth, who had been reproached by his father for some youthful misdeed. Sorry for his conduct, he had sought forgiveness and had been refused. When the curtain rises the room of the dissolute youth is shown. Morgan, the faithful servant, played by Mr. McGuire, is bewailing the fact that his master is on the rapid road to ruin through drink and gambling. At this juncture Henry Seymour, the youth, enacted by Mr. Clines, appears on the scene intoxicated and worried. Morgan lovingly pleads with his master to mend his ways and not to bring his father and mother to the grave with sorrow. Seymour declares that his father refused him forgiveness and cares nothing for him. He sobs sufficiently to moralize and then determines to end his own life. His own regret is in leaving his mother and he recalls to mind the time he, as a child, weaved her a wreath of forget-me-nots. As the clock begins to strike 9 Seymour raises his revolver to end his life. Just as he is about to fire the faithful Morgan enters with two letters. Quickly concealing the revolver, the youth opens one of the letters. It is from his father, forgiving his past transgressions and begging him to return home.

"Too late! Too late!" he moans. He undertakes a second time to commit self-murder, and once more the picture of his mother arises in his mind. He seizes the second letter and finds in it a little bunch of forget-me-nots. They are from his mother, and the curtain descends with Seymour reformed. Both Messrs. Clines and McGuire acquitted themselves admirably.

"Shaun Aroon," the main feature of the evening, is a drama in three acts, and its action is of the present day. In brief, it tells the story of Lord Fernoy, an Englishman, who is likewise an Irish landlord. Fernoy, who was impersonated by David J. Maloney, fell in love with Miss Molly O'Grady while she was perfecting her education in London. He learns that she is the daughter of one of his tenants, Dan O'Grady, and follows her to Ireland. He learns that his resident agent, Fergus Riordan, is oppressing his tenants, and in the disguise of Bad Andy, half-tramp and half-villain, visits his estate.

When the play opens Dan O'Grady, a respectable farmer, impersonated by David O'Connell, is engaged in an argument with the villain, Fergus Riordan, enacted by James J. Carroll. Riordan endeavors to make O'Grady drunk in order to extort £200, which he claims he wants to send to Fernoy. The servant at the tavern, Patrick, impersonated by Emmet Mallon, accents villainy and keeps a watchful eye on the pair.

The scene changes and Molly O'Grady, played by Miss Ella O'Connell, appears, accompanied by Miss Maggie Hourigan, who essayed the role of Maggie, a maid. While they are engaged in talking of their late visit to England Shaun Aroon, the central figure of the drama, appears on the scene. Shaun is a rollicking Irish youth ready to sing, dance or fight, and moreover is in love with Maggie. The role of Shaun Aroon fell to Patrick G. King, whose exuberant spirits got all there was out of the part. Shaun welcomes Maggie home and carries her off for a love feast, but Molly is not long alone, for the disguised Lord Fernoy appears. The heroine recognizes him as the Capt. Waters she had met in London despite his disguise. He begs her to maintain silence and convinces her that Lord Fernoy is not as bad as painted.

Meanwhile Dan O'Grady has been placed in the toils of Old Henning's, a money lender, which part fell to Raymond Barrett. An interval of six months elapses between the first and second acts, and in that time the O'Grady home has been changed from joy to sorrow. Between the machinations of Riordan and the threats of Henning's Dan is at his wits' end. Then Thomas Keenan, Jr., who impersonates the son, Tom O'Grady, who had fled to America five years before, arrives, only to find that his return has been discovered and that the police are en route to arrest him.

Riordan visits the O'Grady home and offers his hand and heart to Molly through her father. The girl disdains the offer and the father applauds her action. This is quickly followed by the arrest of Tom O'Grady, who is placed in irons. Austin E. Walsh, in the role of Nipper, the detective, had comparatively little to do, but did it well.

In the third act Shaun Aroon and Bad Andy are arrested by order of Riordan, but at the opportune moment Bad Andy appears in his true role of Lord Fernoy.

MISS ELIZABETH KING. One of the Moving Spirits of the Geraldine Dramatic Club.

The rascally agent begs forgiveness, but is sent to prison. Molly O'Grady is betrothed to Lord Fernoy, and Shaun wins the heart and hand of Maggie, while Dan O'Grady, his wife and Tom are all made happy.

To pick out any particular person and credit him or her with the best work would only discredit the rest. For amateurs all did equally well.

The Geraldines have been invited to repeat the performance in Jeffersonville at an early date. They may also reproduce the show at Covington or Lexington. Incidental to the action of the play David J. Maloney sang "Molly Bawn" in such excellent style that he was compelled to respond to an encore. Miss Hourigan was also encored for her splendid solo, "Jennie, the Flower of Kildare." Michael E. McGuire recited a pathetic story between the second and third acts. His work was duly appreciated.

DISSENSIONS

Our Separated Brethren Are Suffering From Lack of Unity.

Every Protestant Construes the Scriptures to Suit His Own Idens.

Catholic Church Maintains Its Unity, Sanctity, Universality, Apostolicity.

INSTITUTED BY MANKIND'S REDEEMER

Our separated brethren appear to have agreed to disagree on many points of their respective creeds, if they can really be called creeds. Creed comes from the Latin "credo" and means "I believe." But it seems that the members of these creeds are in many cases anything but believers. Each man construes the Scriptures according to his own idea and many of these ideas are very queer. To Catholic the cause of these various dissensions seems strange enough in many instances to border on the ridiculous.

For instance, the Presbyterians are at present stirring up trouble among themselves over the publication of a book of common worship. Many of the leaders of that church recognize that without unity the church must be a failure, hence they sought to publish a book that would have one common form for services, communion, marriages, funerals, baptisms, etc. Three years ago the General Assembly appointed a special committee on forms and services, with instructions to arrange the book of common worship. This committee has completed its work, only to find that many members of the church look upon the new work as favoring of Episcopalianism or Roman Catholicism. The committee has made this concession, it announces on the title page: "For Voluntary Use in Churches." One of the innovations is that the word "obey" is omitted from the marriage service.

Then one notices that the Unitarians, those who insist on denying the divinity of Jesus Christ and ignore the Holy Ghost, the third person of the Blessed Trinity, declaring that the old view of the Bible is untrue and that the books of the Old Testament are legend and myth instead of history. At the same time these scoffers insist on the authenticity of the New Testament, but fail to see that many points of the Old Testament are corroborated by the New.

A tribunal of the Protestant Episcopal church has tried one of its ministers, the Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey, on the charge of heresy. It is announced that the court agreed by a vote of four to one that the charge was sustained, but a formal statement from the tribunal is awaited. Mr. Crapsey denied the divinity and the virgin birth of our Redeemer, and yet he insists on retaining a minister of a creed that teaches the Godship of the second person of the Blessed Trinity.

These are only a few, less than one hundredth part of 1 per cent, of the dissensions among the non-Catholics who profess Christianity.

Catholics would be tempted to laugh at their disagreements were they not to be pitied. Our Divine Redeemer came upon earth to save us all—Protestants as well as Catholics, Jews and Gentiles, heretics and agnostics. He, and He alone, instituted the Christian or the Catholic church, the Romanist church, as some of our separated brethren call it. That church has maintained its unity, its sanctity, its apostolicity and its universality for more than 1900 years. Why? Because Christ established the church and declared that the gates of hell should not prevail against it. Luther, a renegade Catholic, founded the Lutheran church. Calvin, Wesley, Knox, Campbell and a host of others constructed creeds and established churches to their own liking. Henry VIII., the uxorious king of England, after being honored with the title of "Defender of the Faith," departed from the true church and established his own or Episcopalian church. These men were all known. It was to St. Peter and his successors that our Lord committed the teachings of the truths of that church and it holds the same beliefs today it held in its infancy.

It was of the Catholic church that Lord Macaulay, not a Catholic, wrote these words: "She saw the commencement of all the governments and of all the ecclesiastical establishments that now exist in the world, and we feel no assurance that she is not destined to see the end of them all. She was great and respected before the Saxon had set foot on Britain, before the Frank had passed the Rhine, when Grecian eloquence still flourished in Antioch, when idols were still worshipped in the Temple of Mecca. And she may still exist in undiminished vigor when some traveler from New Zealand shall in the midst of vast solitude take his stand on a broken arch of London Bridge to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's."

PAINFUL INJURIES.

Mrs. Mary Mulloy, the venerable mother of John M. Mulloy, was painfully injured in New Albany on Tuesday. She was visiting her sister, Mrs. Annie Graham, and the two aged ladies were taking a walk, when a workman pruning trees allowed a heavy branch to fall upon their heads. The heavy part of the branch felled Mrs. Mulloy to the ground. Mrs. Graham was only slightly injured. The two ladies were removed to Mrs. Graham's home and medical aid summoned. It was found that no bones were broken and that unless unforeseen complications set in Mrs. Mulloy will soon be able to return home.

UNIQUE DINNER.

Lady Aberdeen's Guests Must Wear Clothes of Irish Make.

Lady Aberdeen, wife of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, has announced a unique dinner and garden party for the early summer and has thereby endeared herself to patriotic Irishmen and women. She proposes to dress herself from top to toe in Irish-made clothing and she has stipulated that all her guests, men as well as women, shall wear none but clothing made in Ireland and by Irish hands. The food to be provided for the dinner will be the produce of Irish soil from soup to dessert. It is expected that Lady Aberdeen's enterprise in this manner will give a wonderful impetus to Irish trade. It will teach the people that Ireland has wonderful resources that only need developing to make her a strictly commercial nation.

EASTERN VISITOR.

Vice President Croghan, of C. K. of A., Entertained Here.

Hubert F. Croghan, of Providence, R. I., Supreme Vice President of the Catholic Knights of America, paid Louisville a visit the early part of the week and met quite a number of the local Knights during his brief stay. Mr. Croghan arrived Wednesday night and was immediately escorted to Macaulay's Theater, where he witnessed the performance of the Geraldine Dramatic Club.

Tuesday morning he was the guest of Messrs. Joseph P. McGinn and Michael Reichert, who showed him many of the points of interest in the city. In the afternoon he accompanied Henry Bosquet to the Jockey Club meeting. It was his first view of running races and he at once became an ardent admirer of the sport of kings. He was lucky enough to hit a winning long shot, which put him in a better humor than ever. In the evening he attended a meeting of the Entertainment Committee of the Central body and at its close the delegates escorted him to his train. Mr. Croghan was en route to attend a meeting of the supreme officers and trustees at St. Louis.

In conversation with a representative of the Kentucky Irish American Mr. Croghan said: "This is my first visit to Kentucky and I must say I am favorably impressed with all I have seen and heard. The dramatic performance last night was the best I ever saw for amateurs, and I have seen many amateur shows in the East. I am pleased with the hospitality shown me by my brother Knights in this city and I want to say that Louisville is a beautiful place."

"The Catholic Knights are coming to the front rapidly in the East, one branch alone receiving twenty-four new members at a recent meeting. I want to say also that members of the order everywhere are indebted to Michael Reichert and Joseph P. McGinn in reference to the rating. They stood between the order and inevitable destruction."

THREE DEGREES

Conferred Upon Large Class of Knights of Columbus Candidates.

Seventy-four candidates became members of Louisville Council, Knights of Columbus, last Sunday afternoon. The initiation was held at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, on Sixth street, near Walnut. A team from Owensboro Council conferred the first degree, Covington the second and Chicago the third. It was nearly 9 o'clock when the initiatory exercises closed. The new and old Knights then adjourned to the Galt House, where more than 300 sat down to an elaborate banquet. The Entertainment Committee, which arranged the spread, was made up of Thomas W. Tarpey, Chairman; J. M. Ryan, H. C. Neenan, P. H. Callahan and Louis E. Hodapp.

After the cigars had been lighted J. M. Ryan, who presided as toastmaster, introduced the speakers, who responded to the following toasts:

"Our Newly Made Brother," Harry M. Swann.

"Greater Louisville," Dr. Irvin Abell.

"The Past of Our Order," Frank A. Gebert.

"The Future of Our Order," Newton G. Rogers.

"Home Coming Week," Hon. Edward J. McDermott.

Louisville Council now numbers about 650 members and the aggregate membership of all the councils numbers 160,000, distributed among 900 councils. The present officers of Louisville Council are: Grand Knight, Al S. Smith; Deputy Grand Knight, Fred Bauer; Secretary, John J. Flynn; Treasurer, Henry Paslick; Chancellor, John A. Doyle; Warden, William Klapheke; Trustees, M. J. Duffy, Henry Thiemann and John J. Caffrey.

OUR DUTY.

Archbishop Glennon Draws Lessons From Life of St. Joseph.

Laborers Should Perform Duty Work For a Day's Hire.

False Presentation of Justice Causes the Undoing of Many.

WHY LABOR IS HONORABLE

Archbishop Glennon, the eloquent young prelate who presides over archdiocese of St. Louis, always something interesting to say. In a recent address in his Cathedral chapel on "St. Joseph, the Just Man," these days of strife between capital and labor his ideas are worth heedful consideration.

"It would be well for us," he said, "to take that attribute of justice and reproduce it in our relations toward ourselves, our neighbors and our God. St. Joseph was a carpenter and a just man. We have many philosophers today on economics, political and social, to set the labor troubles. It might be well put into labor the two characteristics that distinguish St. Joseph, namely, that he was a laborer and honored by Almighty God and that he was a just man, making thereby labor honorable and trying to make the labor just. To perform a day's work for just hire is a laborer's duty. To do less means that he is unjust, and justice has to have a guardian. If you have in the heart of the laborer conscience expressing itself in just day's work, you would not need people around the corner watching him keeping him listed for the work he does and does not do. You would have of the phases of the labor problem solved. And if we could carry this whole thing back beyond the laborer into the common meeting room, whether of the directors, or of the employers, or of the officers, or of the business men, there the figure of justice as the guiding officer of their deliberations, spirit of which would rule out that which is wrong, would guide them to do what is right, then you would have condition where it would not be necessary to have so many laws made to catch them when they are doing wrong. In other words, if this cold, forbidding-looking virtue of simple justice were in the heart of all people, we would reach a more profound solution of all these problems than we can otherwise attempt."

"Justice—it is God that is infinitely just. Justice is the form of divine justice is the form of right, justice is perpetual inclining of the mind to what is right. It means that all should be governed by honest relations, that honors should go by merit, that honest man should not be set aside for the dishonest. Justice is necessary for our social organization, for our everyday life. It is the basic virtue upon which you may build others. If today the figure of justice were to move through the whole world it would find, unfortunately, that many have forgotten name and that almost all are deficient in its practice. I fear in the marts of trade today justice would have to be many and drive them out, because they are living on humanity, like Shylock, who demanded his pound of flesh even though the flesh should bring the heart blood. You remember that justice can only when Shylock was pleading loudly that justice and not mercy should prevail. His false presentation of justice was his own undoing."

This sermon of the Archbishop in honor of the feast of the patronage of St. Joseph. After dwelling upon the various aspects of St. Joseph's character Archbishop summed them up thus: St. Joseph was the just man, a model for fathers, the guardians of the home. St. Joseph, the just man, a model for laborers; St. Joseph, the protector of all, guarding the church, the family, God as he guarded the home; St. Joseph, our helper and our friend.

PEACEFUL SOUTH.

Not only Kentucky, but the entire South, will be benefited by the "Home Coming Week." We have every evidence that former residents of this State are coming and the additional evidence that their friends are coming in large numbers. Men who never set foot in the State before will be here to see what we have to offer. They will be welcomed with Kentucky hospitality, entranced by the beauty of Kentucky women, enthused over our stock farms and amused when they see our unlimited resources of mineral wealth. Visitors from the North, East and West will then investigate further. They will find that the South is not a land of crime; that she has no socialists and anarchists to deal with; that she is not suffering from any serious labor troubles; that she has no Chinese labor problem, nor is she suffering from an influx of foreign paupers. Our visitors will also learn that the negro problem has been minimized and that the entire Southern people are working for the betterment of their respective States and of the whole Union. Why, then, should our visitors not decide to locate in one of the Southern States? Kentucky does not want them all, though she will welcome all who choose to cast their fortunes within her limits. The South is now the land of peace and plenty. She has millions of undeveloped resources and is only waiting for industrial hands. No one who comes to Kentucky will depart with a bad opinion of the South.

NEEDS ATTENTION.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Catholic Citizen of Rochester, N. Y., makes very pertinent remarks on present American journalism in this wise: "It is a lamentable fact that our American press is largely controlled by antagonists to Catholic principles. Why this should be so is accounted for by the fact that well-to-do Catholics seldom if ever invest in daily newspaper securities, thus leaving the field of journalism almost entirely in the hands of their opponents from a religious standpoint. This seems to have been the condition of affairs also in the French republic, which little by little so instilled animosity to Catholicism into the public mind that the present agnostic wave has wrought havoc throughout the once greatest Catholic country in Christendom. It would astound many were they aware of the herculean efforts made to ascertain forces to maintain control of the influential daily newspapers of the large cities in America. It is essential that they be in the hands of Catholics when called upon to further the interests of a certain movement. That they can be relied upon to act in unison for or against a certain question of moment to the people has only too often proven true. If the agitation is beneficial to Catholic interests, the influential newspapers of the country either ignore the question entirely or misrepresent the facts, thus endeavoring to bring the movement into disrepute with the masses. Some of the wealthy Catholics in this country could do no better than to contribute a little of their surplus income and put a stop to the agitation who is ever on the qui for a thrust at the Catholic Church. There are those, of course, who will eventually gain control of daily newspapers in our various cities, but as they are usually moved alone it is slow progress, as nearly every one is aware of the fact that it takes a small-sized mint to conduct a large modern daily newspaper successfully."

Every word of this is true, but it would also be to an advantageous purpose were the wealthy Catholics to help support and encourage the weekly Catholic press. The average weekly Catholic journal does not draw 1 per cent. of its support from the millionaire. Instead, its editors and publishers are dependent on the support of the middle class and the poor.

GREATER LOUISVILLE.

Louisville is growing every minute. Capitalists have at last seen its advantages as a gateway to the South, and money is being invested. The chain of electric railways, with Louisville as a center, will soon encircle the State. Last week the Louisville and Eastern made arrangements to enter Shelbyville, and this week they have a right of way through Frankfort, thus putting Louisville in touch with the entire Bluegrass section.

Thursday is Ascension day, and is solemnly celebrated by the Catholic Church in honor of our Blessed Lord's ascension into heaven forty days after Easter. It is a holiday of obligation, and every good Catholic is bound under penalty of mortal sin to attend mass, even if he is not permitted to refrain from servile work.

"Divide and Conquer" has ever been the motto of England. At present we see William O'Brien on one side and Tim Healy on the other attacking Redmond and Dillon. Take care, gentlemen! Take care! Adopt English tactics, unite yourselves and divide the other fellows.

Members of the Louisville baseball team must have known that the prize of $500 offered by Manager George Tebeau was stage money, as they have slumped awfully since the tender was made.

This is the country of equality. If Andrew Carnegie can furnish $1,000,000 as the modus vivendi for a federation of fine arts, what right has any one to oppose the right of workingmen to federate.

HAPPY DAY.

Children in Several Parishes Received Important Sacrament.

Many Louisville children received their first holy communion and confirmation last Sunday. At the Sacred Heart church a class of seventy boys and girls were confirmed by the Right Rev. Bishop McCloskey just before the 7:30 o'clock mass, at which time they received their first communion. Bishop McCloskey not only instructed the children upon the nature of the sacrament, but admonished the parents on their duties toward their children. The Rev. Father Walsh administered the holy eucharist to the happy children.

A class of fifty-six boys and girls received first holy communion at St. Anthony's church, the Rev. Father Leo officiating. The Rev. Father Weiss administered the same sacrament to a class of forty children at St. George's church. The Rev. Father Louis C. Ohle gave first holy communion to a class of 123 boys and girls at St. Martin's church at 8 o'clock. The same children were confirmed by the Right Rev. Bishop McCloskey at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

BREAKERS AHEAD.

Irish Parliamentary Party Is Tired of Promises and Sympathy.

Members of the Irish Parliamentary party have begun to show signs that they are tired of sympathy and promises. When the Land Commission appointments were brought up in Parliament the Irish members stood united in opposition, and there was a note of battle in their speeches. Then, too, the Liberals, with their big majority, have begun to boast and to taunt the Irish members, because they dare to oppose the proposed education bill. One of the Liberal organs says: "The Catholic priests of Ireland can not be suffered by a Liberal government to block the path of progress."

Since the new Government went into power the Queen's College of Belfast has been granted $100,000 for educational purposes. That is a Presbyterian institution. The Catholics have been refused even a farthing, although the country is overtaxed $75,000,000 annually.

Again we find both the Lord Lieutenant and Chief Secretary Bryce promising to restore evicted families, but when the time came it was announced that there was no money in the treasury available for such a purpose. The Irish members are looking askance at all these breaches of faith, and trouble may start for the Liberals at any moment.

All three of these events have grown to be classics and attract the attention of horsemen all over the country. On the intervening days good cards will be furnished and the public is assured of clean sport.

Will Shelley has been promoted from Starting Judge to Associate Judge, and the promotion meets with popular approval.

VICTORY WELL WON.

Trinity Team Defeats Mackin Bowlers in Third Series.

Trinity Council's bowling team now claims the championship of the Y. M. I. bowlers of Louisville. They played the third series of games against Mackin's team at Barney Flynn's West End alleys on Wednesday night, winning two out of three games, and also winning on total pinnage for the three games by the small margin of sixteen pins. Mackin's team was made up of Capt. Charles S. Reidy, Frank Burke, Al K. Koertner, Charles Cassin, John Harlow and Frank Deuser. Trinity's men were Capt. Albert F. Martin, Syl Lega, Adolph Maier, Ben Schudler, Ben Schall and John J. Barry.

Both games were hotly contested and each bowler rolled as if his life depended on the issue. Prominent among the rooters for Mackin Council were Deputy Sheriff Val Kast, John J. Dignan, Barney Flynn, George J. Lautz, and chief rooter as well as umpire Frank G. Adams, who endeavored to spur his favorites to victory by supplying them with refreshments.

Catholic Knights of America Will Entertain at Fontaine Ferry Park.

Central Committee Held Well Attended Meeting Friday Evening.

Thanks to All Who Made the Annual Celebration a Success.

MANY APPLICATIONS WERE REPORTED

The Central Committee of the Catholic Knights of America met in regular session on Friday night. President Newton G. Rogers occupied the chair and complimented the members that all of the officers had answered Secretary Harry Veeneman's roll call. The members also commented upon the accuracy and comprehensive character of Secretary Veeneman's minutes. A chief feature of interest during the evening was the decision to give a Catholic Knights of America day at Fontaine Ferry Park, the proceeds to be divided between the Central Committee and the uniformed rank companies. This will enable the two companies to fully equip themselves. The announcement that Edward G. Hill was seriously ill at his home, 2218 West Jefferson street, was received with sincere regret.

William T. Meehan announced that during "home coming" week headquarters will be established for the Knights at the Catholic Woman's Club. The use of these rooms were tendered to the committee free of charge and the generous offer was accepted. Visiting Knights can get excellent meals at reasonable prices and the library and reading rooms will be generously supplied with good reading matter.

Joseph P. McGinn reported progress for the degree team, whose members are familiarizing themselves with the new ritual. Thomas Feeley reported that Branch 4 would initiate seven candidates at the next meeting. Patrick Holley announced one initiation from St. Patrick's Branch, while Charles J. Desse, Sr., in behalf of St. John's Branch, announced one initiation, five applications pending and more coming. On behalf of Branch 6 Col. Michael Reichert stated that a number of applications were pending and that the candidates were all young men.

President Rogers and Secretary Veeneman were authorized to write letters of thanks to all those who aided the Knights in making the annual street procession and celebration a success. The list includes the Rev. Father Ohle, who officiated at vespers, and the following funeral directors, who furnished carriages for the distinguished guests: Al Smith, John Ratterman, L. D. Bax, Thomas Keenan, Sr., Daniel Dougherty and Henry Bosse & Son.

The matter of giving an outing was discussed and the consensus of opinion favored Fontaine Ferry Park. The day selected was July 26, in the very heart of midsummer, when sweltering humanity will enjoy the cool breezes from the Ohio river. The Entertainment Committee, whose members arranged and carried to such a successful conclusion the reception to Supreme President Gaudin, was reappointed to complete arrangements for the outing.

The Entertainment Committee met Tuesday night and completed preliminary arrangements for the affair. Every plan was outlined and it is now necessary only to fill in the details. The Central Committee will hold a special meeting next Friday night, when the tickets will be distributed. At the same time arrangements will be made for holding a mass meeting of the seventeen branches affiliating with the Central Committee and the two companies of the Uniform Rank.

President Roosevelt gave a luncheon in honor of Archbishop Messmer and Bishop Horstman this week.

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

In the last week of April 200 emigrants left the East Kerry district for America.

A new department has been opened at the Cork butter market for centrifugal creamery butter.

The co-opted of a County Council for Coochill resulted in the defeat of former Councillor Hannigan.

An industrial exhibition, open to the diocese of Ossory, Fermis and Leighlin, will be held in Kilkenny in July.

Francis Reilly, Chairman of the Grand Urban Council, has been sworn in as a Magistrate for the town of Grand.

An agitation is on foot to revive the project for the erection of a very elaborate abattoir or public slaughter house for Bundalk.

The weekly half holiday movement has taken definite shape, and now that the assistants have taken the matter vigorously in hand the Dundalk Democrat anticipates no great difficulty in carrying it through.

Thomas Ryan, aged eighteen, while engaged removing loose material in a barrow at the slate quarries near Nenagh, toppled over a ledge and, falling nearly 200 feet, was shockingly mutilated, death being instantaneous.

While some workmen were engaged making drains at Carricklane, near Midletown, County Armagh, they unearthed a number of old coins. It is said they are of the thirteenth century and in a good state of preservation.

We much regret to announce the death of Miss Catherine Malone, of Carrickmacross, whose remains were interred last week. The funeral was largely attended and the coffin was reverently borne to the cemetery by the girls of the town.

John O'Brien, one of the most popular men in Castleblaney, was married to Miss Bridget Hughes, eldest daughter of Patrick Hughes, boot merchant of Armagh. The marriage took place in the Cathedral, the Rev. Father Dunne officiating.

At the different masses in Nenagh on Sunday week special prayers were offered for the repose of the souls of the victims in the great catastrophe of San Francisco. Referring to the calamity Father Hogan said it should inspire the whole world with religious awe.

Dr. C. J. Sullivan, who lately resigned the medical office of Corduff dispensary, takes with him volumes of praise from the good people of Corduff. His heart and soul was in his profession while laboring among the poor of this rugged and thoroughly Irish district.

Owen Cranney, popular Dundalk town postman who was recently married, was presented with a very handsome golden chased marble clock by the office staff, and on his return from the honeymoon some of his special friends arranged for a bonfire display at the Rocks which was enthusiastically carried out.

New Ross, County Wexford, has scored a record, says the Limerick Leader. Not a single case of drunkenness has occurred during the past six weeks, at least not a single case has come before the Magistrates. This is something to boast of in a town enjoying 4,000 inhabitants and furnished with ninety-five public houses.

The death of the Rev. Patrick Magee, parish priest of Upper Badoney, County Derry, has reached from the diocese of Derry one of its oldest and most esteemed priests. For a period of forty years Father Magee has had spiritual charge of the parish in which he died, and in which he has left behind him many monuments of his earnest piety and tireless zeal in the cause of religion and education.

Wherever the Franciscan Capuchin Fathers, to whom the temperance crusade has been entrusted by the Irish hierarchy, have opened missions the result has been amazing. Hundreds of thousands have taken the pledge of total abstinence all over the country, and better again, very few have fallen away from the pledge made under such solemn circumstances and holy surroundings.

VOICE FROM WEST.

L. E. Mahan, of Eureka, Cal., has acknowledged with thanks Mackin Council's check for $100 sent to their distressed brethren in California. Mr. Mahan is one of the Supreme Directors of the order, and he has named three members to look after the distressed and distribute relief. His own council, only sixty strong, contributed $500. He writes three-fourths of the members in San Francisco were in need of relief. Outside of that city the order did not suffer in the calamity.

HONORED BY CARDINAL.

His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons has accepted an invitation to officiate at the dedication of the national headquarters of the Knights of Columbus in June. As a consequence all the Catholics of New Haven, Conn., as well as Supreme Knight Edward L. Heern and his fellow members of the Supreme Board of Directors, are elated.

His remains were removed to the family residence, 2008 Twenty-seventh street, on Monday and the funeral took place from St. Charles Borromeo church on Tuesday. What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division 4 will obligate two new members Wednesday night.

The County Board will leave nothing undone to make this year's outing a record breaker.

Division 2 of Utica gave the closing lecture of a successful spring course on Monday evening.

Division 1 of Duluth, Minn., has outlined a plan to give a little time at each meeting to practical instruction in Irish history.

The quarterly report of the State Secretary of the Minnesota Ladies' Auxiliary Insurance Fund shows a balance of about $28,000 with all death claims paid but one.

Division 3 of Syracuse initiated a class of forty on Thursday. After the first and second degrees had been conferred a musical and literary entertainment was given.

State President Lahan, of California, has notified National President Dolan that 1,500 members of the order and their families have been rendered homeless by the recent earthquake.

Prof. J. C. Monaghan, of Washington, lectured at Syracuse on Sunday under the auspices of the Ancient Order. The proceeds were turned over to St. Mary's Foundling Asylum and Hospital.

Divisions 3, 1 and 4 meet Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday respectively. All members are urged to attend, as tickets will be distributed for the annual outing at Fontaine Ferry Park.

A movement is on foot to establish a national memorial day for deceased members. It has not been decided whether to ask the various State Boards or the National Board to fix the date.

Members of the order in Buffalo gave an admirable entertainment recently. The work of the choir under the leadership of Mrs. Bowers was exceptionally fine. A leading member presented the order with a picture of the flag given to the Hibernians of Buffalo thirty years ago.

The County Board met Thursday night and decided to bear all the expenses of the outing, thus giving each division the gross proceeds of their sale of tickets. The reports showed a great deal of work already done, and all the delegates are now elated over the outlook for this year's celebration.

Aside from the applause won by Patrick G. King, who had the title role in "Shau Aroon" Monday night, both the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Geraldine Dramatic Club compliment him for the efficient work he did in soliciting for the programme and his other efforts in behalf of the entertainment.

The largest gathering of citizens ever held at Eveleth, Minn., occurred when the Rev. Father R. J. Mooney, of Duluth, lectured under the auspices of Division 2. Protestants as well as Catholics want to hear him again, so he has set Tuesday, May 29, as the date for a return lecture. His subject will be "Ireland."

Division 1 will hold a regular meeting instead of a social session Tuesday night. The postponement was made out of respect to the memory of James Cusick, who died Saturday night. Several matters of special interest must be considered at this meeting, notices for which have been sent out urging the attendance of all members.

PRIEST SUFFERS LOSS.

The prayers of St. Louis Bertrand's congregation were offered up at the several masses last Sunday for the repose of the soul of the venerable mother of the Rev. Father Eugene Flood, O. P. S. She was eighty-seven years old and had spent many years in Brooklyn, where she died. Death resulted from a stroke of paralysis, but Father Flood reached her bedside shortly before the end came. His return to Louisville is expected very soon and he will have the sympathy of the entire parish in his bereavement.

LARGER QUARTERS.

J. Davin has removed his upholstery establishment from Market street to more commodious quarters at 1825 Portland avenue. He is prepared to varnish and recover parlor suits, lounges, mattresses and all kinds of furniture. Mr. Davin makes to order all sorts of box mattresses. He is one of the best known young Irish-Americans in the West End and all his work is guaranteed. Call on him if you want good work.

TRANSFERRED.

The Rev. Father A. J. Roell, pastor of St. Patrick's church at Carlisle, in the Covington diocese, has been transferred to Fort Thomas. He is an able and eloquent young priest and his parishioners are loath to part with him. His successor has not been appointed.

IMPROVING.

Lieut. Tom Fitzgibbons, one of the most popular officers in the police department, who has suffered from an attack of malarial fever, is much improved. His friends hope that he will be able to leave Gray-street Infirmary within a few days.

SOCIAL SESSION.

Division 4 Plans a Big Time For Members and Friends.

Division 4, Ancient Order of Hibernians, expects a record breaking crowd at its social session next Wednesday evening. Only those routine matters that require immediate attention will be disposed of prior to the festivities, after which President Murphy will turn the social session over to John J. Barry, Chairman of the Literary Committee, and his colleagues, Dave Reilly and Joseph L. Lenihan.

The Literary Committee is proving a boon to the division, since it lightens the dull monotony and gives the members something to consider and discuss aside from sick benefits and death claims. Messrs. Barry, Reilly and Lenihan have not announced their programme otherwise than to say that there will be plenty of music, vocal and instrumental, and an abundance of refreshments and a total absence of those speeches which lack terminal facilities. Every member of the order is invited to attend this meeting and is also urged to bring his male friends. It is believed that these open meetings will acquaint other Irish-Americans with the aims and ambitions of the order, thus leading to an increased membership.

NEW LUSTRE.

A. Discussion of Educational Topics Bears Fruit at Mackin.

Talks on educational topics are getting to be quite a feature in Mackin Council's meetings. Each succeeding week appears to add new interest and to bring out unlooked-for abilities in the members. On Tuesday night James Mullarky told what the seven corporal works of mercy were, and explained why Catholic young men should practice them. Robert Osborn and Dr. Michael Casper answered the question regarding the significance of lights on the altar. Dr. Casper also delivered an address, and while he had not announced any particular subject, it might be termed a eulogium of Abraham Lincoln. In his introduction he spoke of the "home coming," and then told of Kentuckians who had become illustrious in other fields, not the least of them the Right Rev. John L. Lancaster Spalding, Bishop of Peoria. In his peroration he bade the Y. M. I. of Louisville to help welcome the "home-comers."

Ben Sand followed with a splendid address on "The Christian Home." Owing to the fact that an initiation will take place on May 29, no literary exercises will be held, but Messrs. Clarence Zook, Will Daly and Wm. O'Toole will speak on the first Tuesday night in June.

President Ralby propounded the following questions to be answered next Tuesday, "What are the eight beatitudes?" and "What is the feast of Corpus Christi and when is it celebrated?"

CHAWK SENDS GREETING.

Albert F. Martin, Grand First Vice President of the Y. M. I., met William J. Chawck, Jr., on his recent trip to Memphis. Mr. Chawck is a Louisville boy, who went to the Tennessee metropolis recently to become managing representative of the Globe Tannery's establishment there. His lovely wife and attractive children are also installed in Memphis, but still have a home in their old Kentucky home. Mr. Chawck sends, through Mr. Martin, his best regards to all his Louisville friends.

FONTAINE FERRY PARK.

Crowds continue to flock to Fontaine Ferry Park and, of course, the new skating rink is coming in for a large share of patronage. It has been placed in charge of Edwin B. Barnes, a veteran rink manager, who has introduced many innovations. Alberto Rosati's Royal Italian Concert Band has been engaged to furnish the concert music in the park

WELCOME VISITOR.

The Rev. Father Charles O'Connell, pastor of St. Joseph's historic church at Bardonia, paid a visit to Louisville the first part of the week. Despite his onerous duties, Father O'Connell is showing no signs of age, and greets his friends with as hearty a handshake as of yore.

GREAT VICTORY.

Trinity's Bowlers Take Third Games From Phil Sheridan Team.

Trinity Council's bowling team went to Bellevue, Ky., Sunday morning, and returned with the scalps of the Phil Sheridan Council's bowlers dangling at their belts. In the Louisville party were Capt. Albert F. Martin and his son Frank and Messrs. George Reiling, Adam Schneider, Thomas Barry and J. X. Kinberger. On arriving at Newport the visitors were met by the following delegation from Phil Sheridan Council: Messrs. Joseph A. Cassidy, Frank Witt, Clarence Gott, Robert Fleish, Ben Heheman and Andrew Streck. The hosts escorted their guests to Bellevue, where an elegant luncheon had been prepared. After the inner man had been satisfied, all adjourned to the alleys, where the three games were decided on total pinning. Trinity's men won all three games and rolled up a grand total of 225 pins more than their rivals.

After the games the visitors were regaled with a handsome spread at Beuchter's dining room. After that they were escorted to Phil Sheridan Council's club rooms, where after inspecting the handsome quarters they were once more served with refreshments. The hosts did not leave the Louisville delegation until they got aboard the train at Cincinnati on the return trip to Louisville. The Bellevue team will come to this city for revenge on June 3, and the local Y. M. I. boys will treat them royally. Mr. Kinberger remained in Cincinnati to fill a social engagement.

SILVER HILLS.

Continues to Be the Cynosure of Louisville's Nature Lovers.

Passenger traffic to Silver Hills, on the Louisville and Southern Indiana Traction Company, is increasing every day. Many who made the trip from Louisville are so impressed by the beautiful scenery and healthful surroundings that they are contemplating building homes there and joining the Kentucky colony already installed.

The trip has several things to recommend it—the delightful ride across the Ohio, the constant change of scenery between Jeffersonville and New Albany, and above all the pure and exhilarating air of Silver Hills. From many points of vantage these Floyd County knobs give the tourist a birdseye view of Louisville, while the broad Ohio winds between Kentucky and Indiana like a gigantic ribbon.

The schools will soon close for the summer, and already the managers of various educational institutions are arranging for excursions to the hills. No charge is made for picnic parties, and there is ample room for all to enjoy nature in her most beneficent mood, the time when flowers are in bloom and the giants of the forest are in full leaf. Cars leave Third and Market streets for Silver Hills every fifteen minutes.

INSPECTION TRIP.

Fire Chief Filmore Tyson left Monday for San Francisco, where he will spend several weeks looking into the present condition of affairs in that ill-fated city. He will try to draw lessons from the destruction wrought there to prevent any possibility of a wholesale conflagration in Louisville. Before returning Chief Tyson will visit Seattle, Portland and other cities in the Northwest. Upon his return he may have potent improvements to recommend for the benefit of this city.

POPE PIUS OFFICIATES.

His Holiness Pope Pius X. conducted the services in St. Peter's church, Rome, Sunday, in honor of the memory of the blessed Julie Billiet, who assisted the wounded in the battle of Waterloo, and founded in France the Congregation of Our Blessed Lady. Steps are under way for the canonization of this saintly person. Thousands of persons, including many Americans, witnessed the ceremony of beatification on Sunday.
